well-being of the students and the larger community.

UL spokesperson Kgalema Mohuba said: "This year the trust envisions to raise a minimum of R3m to achieve its mandate.

"Since 1999 to date, the fund has assisted 636 students in the region of mer SRC leaders and Gauteng Premier David Makhura.

The trust fund was initiated by the 1995-96 SRC with the aim of raising funds for the well-being of financially needy but academically deserving students.

montshom@thenewage.co.za

ON IT: Public protector Busisiwe Mkhwebane will deliver the keynote address at the Student Trust Fund's 20th anniversary. PICTURE: HERBERT MATIMBA

Mokwakwaila police who subsequently arrested the old man," police spokesperson Lt-Col Moatshe Ngoepe said.

Provincial police commissioner Lt-Gen Nneke Ledwaba expressed shock at the incident and warned that any crime, especially sexually related incidents, would not be tolerated.

"It is disappointing that a person of the suspect's calibre in terms of his age could become vicious to children instead of being a reliable grandfather," Ledwaba said.

In another development, ANC regional secretary in Waterberg Nkolo Victor "Tolly" Mashamaite, 40, is expected to appear again in the Mokopane Regional Court next month on rape and bribery charges.

Mashamaite appeared briefly in court on Monday and the case was postponed to December 5 for a plea to the charges. His R1 000 bail was extended.

He was arrested on October 12 following complaints by a 22-year-old woman that he raped her in a hotel room six months ago.

She also alleged that he later offered her money to withdraw the accusations but she refused.

However Mashamaite and notable ANC supporters had publicly said the charges appeared to be politically motivated.

The accused said he was optimistic he would be able to clear his name in court.

montshom@thenewage.co.za

SHAMEFUL: A pensioner who allegedly started raping two girls aged 14 and 15 on a weekly basis since July was arrested in GaRamochinyani.

PMC again named top employer

MONTSHO MATLALA

THE Palabora Mining Company (PMC) in Phalaborwa is over the moon after being voted top employer for the year ending September 2017 by International Top Employers Institute for the second time in a row.

The institute appraises and evaluates South Africa's 86 top companies on adherence to principles, policies and practices that promote employee development, diversity and retention of talent.

PMC manager for external affairs and communication Lydia Radebe said the certification was an endorsement that her company's work culture and environment was conducive for personal and career development.

"The fact that some of our employees leave PMC for greener pastures and return to PMC indicates that there is something we are doing right. It is good for employees to be able to compare and ultimately return to what they perceive as best," she said.

The copper mining company boasts 3 700 diverse employees, of which more than 80% are from local communities.

This puts the company among the top employment creators in the Ba-Phalaborwa municipality.

PMC said it would continue to make a difference in the lives of people in many aspects including offering bursaries and learnerships.

"We therefore encourage local youths to study at institutions of higher learning to ensure that they reap the full benefits of these programmes," Radebe said.

montshom@thenewage.co.za

well-being of the students and the larger community.

UL spokesperson Kgalema Mohuba said: "This year the trust envisions to raise a minimum of R3m to achieve its mandate.

"Since 1999 to date, the fund has assisted 636 students in the region of former SRC leaders and Gauteng Premier David Makhura.

The trust fund was initiated by the 1995-96 SRC with the aim of raising funds for the well-being of financially needy but academically deserving students.

montshom@thenewage.co.za

ON IT: Public protector Busisiwe Mkhwebane will deliver the keynote address at the Student Trust Fund's 20th anniversary. PICTURE: HERBERT MATIMBA

Mokwakwaila police who subsequently arrested the old man," police spokesperson Lt-Col Moatshe Ngoepe said.

Provincial police commissioner Lt-Gen Nneke Ledwaba expressed shock at the incident and warned that any crime, especially sexually related incidents, would not be tolerated.

"It is disappointing that a person of the suspect's calibre in terms of his age could become vicious to children instead of being a reliable grandfather," Ledwaba said.

In another development, ANC regional secretary in Waterberg Nkolo Victor "Tolly" Mashamaite, 40, is expected to appear again in the Mokopane Regional Court next month on rape and bribery charges.

Mashamaite appeared briefly in court on Monday and the case was postponed to December 5 for a plea to the charges. His R1 000 bail was extended.

He was arrested on October 12 following complaints by a 22-year-old woman that he raped her in a hotel room six months ago.

She also alleged that he later offered her money to withdraw the accusations but she refused.

However Mashamaite and notable ANC supporters had publicly said the charges appeared to be politically motivated.

The accused said he was optimistic he would be able to clear his name in court.

montshom@thenewage.co.za

SHAMEFUL: A pensioner who allegedly started raping two girls aged 14 and 15 on a weekly basis since July was arrested in GaRamochinyani.

PMC again named top employer

MONTSHO MATLALA

THE Palabora Mining Company (PMC) in Phalaborwa is over the moon after being voted top employer for the year ending September 2017 by International Top Employers Institute for the second time in a row.

The institute appraises and evaluates South Africa's 86 top companies on adherence to principles, policies and practices that promote employee development, diversity and retention of talent.

PMC manager for external affairs and communication Lydia Radebe said the certification was an endorsement that her company's work culture and environment was conducive for personal and career development.

"The fact that some of our employees leave PMC for greener pastures and return to PMC indicates that there is something we are doing right. It is good for employees to be able to compare and ultimately return to what they perceive as best," she said.

The copper mining company boasts 3 700 diverse employees, of which more than 80% are from local communities.

This puts the company among the top employment creators in the Ba-Phalaborwa municipality.

PMC said it would continue to make a difference in the lives of people in many aspects including offering bursaries and learnerships.

"We therefore encourage local youths to study at institutions of higher learning to ensure that they reap the full benefits of these programmes," Radebe said.

montshom@thenewage.co.za